“ Byron,

It's been two years since your passing and the impact of your departure remains indelible. You are no longer a phone call away. You are no longer home. Getting used to these realities remains a struggle. How can I move forward when I want to return to the past? Maybe I will never understand why you had to leave us. No matter what, rest assured that I will always remember you.

Missing you dearly.

Dear Ralph, Byron hears you. In a dream he let me know that he was in trouble before, but now he is ok. It was a very vivid dream and it lasted only about 30 seconds. It was the only time I saw him since last year.

There is something about his message. To know that he is OK.

Greetings and a hug,

Hugo

“ My dearest Bryon:

Who could have imagined that our friendship would last so long when we met almost 30 years ago? I have witnessed the great milestones in your life, including your marriage to a wonderful wife, the birth of your baby boy, and venturing into your own business. I also have seen you through the setbacks that can make or break man or woman. You have ridden these milestones with grace and honor. For this and so much more, I am deeply blessed to have been part of your life.

I am forever grateful for all that you've done for me. In Boston, you gave me solace when my grandmother passed. You always made sure to answer my never-ending questions about technology. And you and your family always made me feel welcome at your home when I visited. You were the brother I never had.

You had an unwavering love for movies, Star Wars, and metal band t-shirts. Your passion for the guitar and music, however, is one that earned my profound admiration. You started humbly with a cheap and flimsy guitar but persevered through lessons and practice. This passion took you hundreds of miles away to Berklee, which made me so proud. You didn't keep this passion to yourself: you shared it with countless students and gifted it to your beloved son.

My heart aches to pieces to see you go but I know we'll reunite again.

With all the love in the world,

Ralph

“ Byron you are greatly missed. Thanks for being an awesome friend. Cecilia, Tyler, Alex, Herman and Hugo I'm so sorry for your loss. Please know we are here for you.

Eric Henderson - September 03, 2020 at 06:30 PM

HH

Thanks Eric. Byron always mentioned the 2 Erics (Eric Henderson, and Erik May) as part of a small group of dearly beloved friends. If he wasn't mentioning something he experienced with you guys, he would mention Navin and Sally, Moni and Brittany, etc. Byron had many friends, but he was most fond of you guys. In a way, Byron also became my best friend and buddy, for only good friends share other good friends stories and life experiences.

I'm sure Byron is watching over all of us right now, and I can't wait for the day I can re join him in the afterlife.

Thanks for being a good friend to Byron, but even more, for being best friends to him.

“ *Dear Ceci, Tyler, Alex, Hugo, Herman and specially Tia Conchita:
My heart aches for you dear family, Byron's life in this earth was cut short, but we know his spirit lives on and we all be reunited with him one day. I was thinking that he was the youngest of 15 cousins with me being the oldest, but the difference in age never kept apart; although he could have very well be my son, my oldest daughter is actually older than Byron. We got together and enjoy the family and each other whenever there was an opportunity, even though we lived in different states for a while.
Byron kept such a beautiful smile, a terrific sense of humor and he was always ready to offer any help he could give. Byron, dear cousin you are going to be miss by more people than you can imagine, specially your dear wife Ceci and your son Tyler, but I know you will be watching them both from above and you will always be their guardian Angel.
We can assume that God needed a guitar player for his Angelical choir and Byron fit those shoes, as God always takes the best.*

So long dear cousin.
