“ Although circumstances did not permit me or my son Daniel to be there in person, we were there "virtually" as was my sister Denise. It was nice to see these comments from those who loved and respected him. Mention of his pride of heritage reminded me that this was something he gave me...to the point where I actually learned some Taino words. He also me my love of education when taught me to read El Diario La Prensa before I was old enough to go to school. He gave me that and the gift of humor. Thank you for your kind words. Taino-Ti, Isa (the middle daughter & mother of his Grandson Daniel)

“ I'll always remember Tio and his smile.We both enjoyed history. He was proud of our Taino heritage and that is how I learned about my grandfather whom I never met. Tio was the youngest of 11 kids and stayed under his father until he migrated north to NYC. Over a few shots of Chivas Regal, we bonded as we reminisce about the old times and his Mets. You will always be part of my life. Go on Boricua thank you for paving the way.

“ Tio Chuito, the youngest sibling of my father, Enrique, remembered very clearly of how he got his name. When we visited Tio, I would ask him about childhood stories or history, gardening, etc. I will never forget of how he got his name when he was born. According to him, when the midwife saw that it was another boy, someone, don't know if it was my abuela Isabel or the midwife that called out-laud ,”ay Jesus “ my Abuela said, that will be his name. Sitting by him and sharing wonderful stories with Tio Chuito that's how I will always remember him and How he enjoyed eating little desserts that I prepared for him. Chu spent numerous hours with him and I know that was quality time with Tio. I know that, now, he will be with Tia Teresa, the Love of his Life, once again. Love you Tio.
Rest In Peace

To echo Mariita's memories, the small, dear ones are the best. Watching baseball games (1st Mets then Marlins) was fun. In NY, our many trips, just you and I to Belmont or Aqueduct were the BEST Saturdays spent together. (Even though as many times as we went, we always managed to get a little lost 😊). I learned to play dominoes from your brother, Juan and won a few games on you!! Your sense of humor was inherited by me, Isa and Michelle...Zoie shows al ot of promise because of the time she spent with you. Nicole remembers your trips to the mall to put her on the carousel and the annual 4th of July visits to see fireworks. I can go on and on about quality time you spent with all of us. You will be missed, but you are happily reunited with your "Esa" (mom) and your "China" (Terri). Until we meet again. Love you, Denise
