“ I still remember you! I have married and ironically his last name is Torres as well and his dad name is Jose lol. He is Mexican via Mexico. I still remember that morning your cousin said you past; but I saw you standing with a dog (a German shepherd; beige and black). You were wearing beige kaki pants with a white T-shirt. I saw you 2x that day but after that I never saw your figure again. I did receive your calls but I was trying to force you to meet me in person. Now I regret it. I hope your children are okay. I just hope you rest in peace. You were a great friend to me on a number of levels. Thank you.

“ Well it is now 07/25/2019. You are still in my thoughts and my heart. I am still married but I still keep waiting for him to be you. Still have not come and yes, it is because there will never be a you! Hope your family is doing well. My son is doing great as well. He is going to the 11th grade now lol.

“ Her it is 4 years later I still remember you. I wish they would have left your picture up on this site. Yes, I am still married lol. My son is taller than I am now. I now believe that the figure of a man and the German shepherd dog was really you lol. I never saw them again. I miss you very much and yes, I still thank you for being the best friend I ever had I must say. Again, I hope your kids are okay and happy to a point because I know they miss you too. I find myself wondering if you knew something was wrong? My only regret is that I did not get to meet the man that made me laugh and just very happy. I knew I was not alone even though you were not with me in person.

“ Yes, I still remember you and miss you very much. My son brought you the other day I know I was shocked to lol. I hope your family is doing okay too. Yes, I am still married but I must say Hispanic men are something else. So, I wonder why you seem to be the best of all meaning you listen to me, you gave me advice when I was dealing with my ex in laws. You were just perfect for me lol..

“ I still remember you!!! I am now married Carlos(now known as Jose). I was inspired by you meaning thought it was a sign whereas you both have the last name and are both Hispanic. He to was living in Miami area as you. I hope your children are doing okay. My son is okay. What hunts me the most is that you were trying very hard to call me that Saturday before you died. By the missed calls I saw, but I was trying to force you to meet me in person by playing hard ball. I did come to love you after having been on the phone every day for almost a year lol wow... Several times a day. After seeing your picture on this website site the weirdest thing Carlos I saw a man at this same time with a Sherman shepherd that you said you use to walk look at me and this happened twice and no more I never saw them again. I do believe that it was you because you had promised me that I would get to see you in person. This day that they say you passed I don't believe is true to this day. I hope you found peace which you sound like you were to a point. I am happy we shared our lives because you gave me more than you think even if not in person.
