“ The love a daughter has for her mother is pure. A simple hug from mom is a powerful thing. Its like being engulfed in all her love and no matter how bad it is, that hug made everything just a little bit better. She wasn't the best mother and I wasn't the best daughter but she was mine and I was hers to have and to hold until death do we part. I loved my mother as trees love water and sunshine. A beautiful woman. Sharp as a sword, tempered with a spine of steel.

Death leaves a pain no one can heal. Love leaves a memory no one can steal.

*All my love,
Your daughter*

“ To our beloved big sister: The last 3 years were wonderful for us. We got to know you a little bit better. You wanted to be with us to get to know us and to know your nieces, nephews and grand nieces and nephews. We are delighted that we made your last years happy. You attended birthdays, anniversaries, baby showers, Christmas, Easter and New Year's celebrations. You attended concerts/plays to see your niece, Abriella perform. You also joined us in visiting our deceased parents at Christmas time, mother's day and birthdays. We went shopping and just hung out at times. You joined our "sister circle" and we were there for you when you felt sick, needed to go to the hospital, we took turns visiting you numerous times. We took care of you, we listened to you talk, especially after your dialysis when you felt like crap. Yes, we were there for you even when we had other things to do because we loved you and you needed us and that's what mattered. That's what sisters are for. We'll miss you, sis! You bought your final home next door to mom & dad. They will be overjoyed to see you. Happy reunion. REST IN PEACE!
