“ Hey Pops,

Almost 2 years later and I'm finally writing something to you on here. You know we have never been much for words when talking, but I just need you to know you are greatly missed and loved. Not one single day goes by where you are not on my mind or I see your face, whether in my mind or on a picture. I continue to pray that you are in peace in Heaven and I already feel your presence watching over us. Things may not be exactly how you would like it down here but within due time we will get it right. Tanisha and I were just joking how you would send us a box with bun and cheese, bulla and the garage wine, all wrapped up in newspaper. Lol. We really miss little things like that but just miss you a whole lot more. I never stop bragging on how much of a great father, friend and inspiration you were to me and I value it even more as I grow older. Our selfishness always wishes we had more time with you in the physical form but we know your time here was done and God had a bigger plan for you. Anyway man, I love you, miss you and will continue to believe that you hear my words when I talk to your spirit. Till next time,

“ Pops,
Your spirit is AMAZING! You are around all the time and I love it. You left the physical world and entered the spirit world in full force. I love how you continue to guide and love on us even more. Thanks for continuing being that rock in the family, we know there is work to do and hopefully it will get done sooner rather than later. We will continue to celebrate your life. No sad tears, only happy ones. Miss you and love you!

“ Pops,
Gone but never forgotten. I feel your presence around Jr and I ALL the time. When Mimi starts sniffing and looking in different directions, I know you are nearby. I thank you for continuing to watch out for Jr and I. Although we miss you dearly, we are comforted by your presence and all of the wonderful memories you left us with. You were the pillar of the family and now that you are gone, things have not been the same. I hope that you are resting peacefully. I love you and miss you dearly.

P.S. The roses you planted in the garden are so beautiful. I'm reminded of you everytime I see them. Thank you for planting them. You know I don't have a green thumb but I will do my best in keeping them up. :) See you in a wink.

Love,
Tan
