“ First day of N.E.H.S. we became friends. We'd walk down the street to pick your sister Gabby, up from the church after school. So many years ago. From you slipping the extension cord out your bedroom window to cut my hair. I was your first unofficial client outside of your bedroom window 😂. You actually did a pretty decent job and the cuts only got better.

We went down to the military recruiters office the same day. I wanted to go to the Marines and you the Navy. When the Marines didn't work out for me you wanted me to sign up with you for the Navy, but I didn't.

We took different paths in life, but you were indeed a true and constant friend. Through the good and bad you had my back. I wish I could tell you these things in person, but the opportunity has passed. Too many memories to share all here. I love you friend. Rest well...see you on the other side.

Sending condolences from Oklahoma, Anthony (Twin) Bradley.

“ To my brother,

There are no words big enough for the space you left behind. Your absence still doesn't feel real. I still catch myself wanting to call or text you.

You were my first hero way before I even understood what that meant. From the very beginning, you protected me, believed in me, and loved me in a way that made me feel safe no matter what. You weren't just my brother you were my bestie. My person. The one who would do anything for me without hesitation; other than mommy of course.

You showed me what strength really looks like. Not just in how hard you fought through ALS, but in the way you kept everyone together through it all and even after. Even when your body was failing you, your heart never did. You still worried about everyone else. You still made people laugh. You still showed up for me in every way you could. That kind of strength is what I wish to emulate.

I hate that this disease took so much from you; your voice, your movement, your independence, but it never took who you were as a person.

I hope you knew how much I looked up to you. (I'm sure you did) How much I still do. So much of who I am IS because of YOU.

There are times all I want is one more conversation, one more laugh, one more hug from my big brother. But even in this nightmare, I'm grateful. Grateful that I got to be your little sibling. Grateful for every memory, every lesson, every single moment we shared.

You will always be my first hero and my forever bestie.

I carry you with me in everything I do.

I love you endlessly, and I miss you more than words can ever explain.

Love always,

 Gabarous

“ Never in a million years would I have thought to be writing you something like this. It is hard to find the words to say goodbye to someone who meant so much to me. You were more than my cousin, you were my friend, my brother, my laughter on bad days, and family in the truest sense. You had a way of bringing family together, the glue that kept us. Friends and family meant so much to you, and you taught me that. No matter what, you kept it real, in good times or bad.

The bond we shared was one built on love and loyalty. It breaks my heart to pieces that I cannot be there to see you off, to stand there and honour you in person. Please know that distance does not lessen my love for you or the pain I feel in losing you.

Thank you for every joke, every conversation, every moment of support, and every memory we created together. Thank you for being the kind of person who left a mark on the hearts of so many. You left memories I will carry for the rest of my life. Your life mattered, and your love will continue to live through all of us who were blessed enough to know you. I will forever love you more than you could have ever imagined.

Though you are gone, you will never be forgotten. I will carry you with me always.

Rest peacefully, my dear cousin, my brother, my fav.
